

Opened last autumn, Segafredo Zanetti (The Loop, 33 Wellington Street, Central, 2523 2821) looks from the outside just like any other coffee shop - step inside though and you' ll find a whole lot more. At a recent food tasting to introduce their new spring menu, owner Michelle Tang spoke with a passion about the concept of a sputino bar, an Italian term for an outlet which serves coffee, small bites and cocktails in a casual environment. The spring additions expand the menu to include pasta and risotto dishes to complement the existing sandwiches, salads and snacks.

Unlike other coffee shops, Segafredo has a liquor licence to go with its extensive range of coffees and teas. The sgroppino (prosecco with lemon sherbet and limoncello, $88) with its refreshing taste is a perfect accompaniment to one their homemade cakes, of which the pick is the mocca mousse cake ($48), a chocaholic' s delight that just melts on the tongue.

1 Mar 2008

BC Magazine

© 1994-2007 Carpe Diem Publications Limited. All rights reserved.